

Android & iPhone Apps

The role of a mobile has gone far beyond making and receiving a phone call. Now people are using it as a light weight computer, especially with the advent of Android OS and iOS. Nowadays, most of the people love to carry a smart phone, a pocket computer. And the smart business people soon have found new possibilities to reach the mass through mobile Android/iOS apps that can be installed on the mobile OS.

A mobile app run in a mobile OS in the same way a windows software program runs in a desktop computer. But there are many limitations in developing a mobile app. Unlike a website, it runs locally; use the local storage so it has to be installed in the local OS.

You can hire us for developing app for the Android OS and iPhone OS. What we need to know is "The requirement, i.e. what to develop". Rest we will take care.

Android App Vs iPhone App

Android OS and iPhone OS are totally different to each other. So the same app will never work on the two devices. For Android the application is to be written in JAVA, while for iPhone the programming language is objective C. So you need to develop app separately for each OS. An iPhone app should take more hours than an android. So the cost for a iPhone app are likely to be higher.

What does it Cost?

The cost developing a mobile app can be as little as $200. There is no upper limit. It entirely depends on the complexity and features of the app.
