

How A Web Team Works

We recruit intelligent, well qualified and experienced PHP/MySQL developers and let them work under quality oriented strict supervision. They become available for hiring when they ensure delivering quality works. Here how it works.

1. You hire a project manager (full time or part time) and one or more full time or part time developers. Full time developers will work only on your projects and will be always available on skype/chat during the working hours. You can contact them any time.
2. We provide all web development amenities to the developers. We even provide our code library, modules, and framework free for him to use. These have been built and tested in last 13 years.
3. Project manager communicates with you, finalise the SRS before it goes to developers. Developers will communicate with you or your client only on specific issues during development or testing phase. This is to save your time.
4. A developer does all coding works including PSD to HTML conversion. If he is stuck or need some expert help, he has option to consult other expert developers who you have not hired.
5. You get the non development works (template design, data entry etc) done by other resources on assignment basis. Your dedicated developer can manage it on your behalf.
6. He manage a daily log and enter what hours have been spent on what tasks. You can check his works any time.
7. In case a developer has become ill or left the job or you are not satisfied with his works, we will arrange a replacement developer.
8. We will be available for future support, after years, even for a 1 hour job.

In short, it is just like your own in-house team. Except you do not take technical and HR hassles.
